Nicole Bauberger - Chainstitching

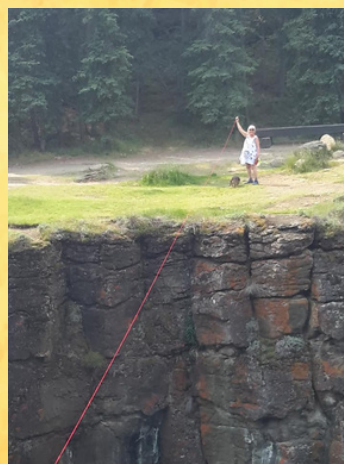

NICOLE IS AN ARTIST OF SETTLER HERITAGE FROM WHITEHORSE.

Nicole has made her home in the traditional territories of the Tagish Kwan people, also known as Whitehorse, since 2003.

Her art practice includes painting, sculpture and installation, as well as storytelling, music and performance. She embraces collaborations with other artists of all ages, and sees teaching as part of this.

Bauberger opened the Dalton Trail Trail Gallery in the woods behind her house when all the galleries closed due to Covid in 2020. She goes on installing new works there, listening to people encounter what they find.
